VENEZUELA FIXED.

A Difficulty That Once Promised War Now Ends in Peace.

THE VENEZUELAN COMMISSION

Announces That the Whole Matter will be Arbitrated Without Recourse to Collection of Evidence—Lord Salisbury's Statement.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The Venezuelan commission makes the following official statement: "The statement of Lord Salisbury is reported in the morning papers. It is probable that the boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela will be settled by arbitration at any day. Under these circumstances, the commission while continuing its labors in the preparation and orderly arrangement of many valuable reports and documents procured and used in the course of its labors does not propose to formulate any decision for the future of matters subject to its examination. It will continue its sessions from time to time but with the hope and expectation that a friendly and just settlement of all pending differences between the nations interested will make any final decision on its part unnecessary."

The arbitration Venezuela dispute is settled. It is a fact that all arrangements have been completed and all details for arbitration of treaty between the United States and Great Britain arranged. The final treaty of treaty arbitration were arranged in this city last night, and the treaty is to be signed in London, have been accepted. The treaty covers Venezuela only and does not include the general treaty arbitration of all future disputes between Great Britain and the United States. The Venezuela arbitration treaty will consist of five arbitrators, two to be named by the United States and two by Great Britain. These four to select the fifth. Venezuela will not be directly represented in the commission. The treaty fixes sixty years of undisputed possession as the test of the presumption of rightful occupancy in settled districts. From the American standpoint the final agreement is of any kind of arbitration is a disaster.

Venezuela has asked for arbitration for Great Britain's reply always is that while arbitration was desirable in settled districts as sovereignty in unsettled districts is open to arbitration. By this statement arbitration will be the acceptance of the old commission's rule of prescription. The United States is that the entire Venezuelan boundary will be thrown open to arbitration for Great Britain to show that certain portions have been occupied by her subjects so long peacefully, internationally and publicly as to make conclusive territorial presumption.

Howard Interviewed.
London, Nov. 10.—United States Ambassador Howard in an interview with the Associated Press expressed the opinion that the United States law of twenty years' possession will prevail in the case of settlements in the Venezuelan disputed districts. The afternoon papers unanimously say that in a speech at Salisbury's ambassador last night of the practical settlement of the Venezuelan difficulty.

FARWELLS LOSE STURGIS CASE

Supreme Court Affirms the Ruling of Judge Tukey Giving Sturgis Additional Compensation.

Ottawa, Ill., Nov. 10.—Prominent among the cases decided by the supreme court yesterday was that of Bessie M. Sturgis, against Charles and John Farwell. In fact, the two cases in which those parties were interested were decided by one opinion.

Sturgis during his business career represented the Farwells and represented the Capital Freehold and Land Investment company, limited, disposing of lands in the Pan Handle of Texas. As compensation for his services he received $240,000. This he claimed was not his share. The matter was then brought before Judge Tukey, who allowed Sturgis in addition to what he had already received, eighty lots in Marquette, Mich., and $75,000. The case was decided by Judge Tukey under the law of 1887, which held that no appeal could be taken from the decision of the lower court.

The Farwells were not content, claiming that their attorneys were not authorized to enter into any such agreement in settlement of the case.

The supreme court holds that from the fact that the Farwells were represented in Judge Tukey's court the agreement was bona fide, and for that reason the decision of the lower court was affirmed.

Prince A. Lyon Secures a Divorce in Oklahoma.

Porcy, Okla., Nov. 10.—Prince A. Lyon, who claims to be a member of New York City's Four Hundred, was given a divorce here yesterday from his wife, Emma. Lyon is well dressed, and spent his money here quite lavishly. In his petition Lyon claims he was married December 25, 1893, in New York City, and further says he was married in one of the most fashionable churches in the city. He further says his wife immediately abandoned him, and now lives in New Albany, N. Y. He says his wife, while quite rich, is feeble, and he could not live with her. He says she was insanely jealous of him, and would not allow him to attend a ball without she was along, and, further, would not allow him to dance with any other lady.

SWIFT AS THE WIND

From Rock Island to Chicago in Three and One-Half Hours.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—All records of fast railroad traveling between Chicago and the Mississippi river were broken yesterday afternoon by the Rock Island Railroad company, which ran a special train from Rock Island to Chicago, a distance of 181 miles in three hours and thirty minutes, inclusive of stops, or in three hours and forty-one minutes. If stops are taken into consideration, from Madison to Blue Island the train made a run, including three stops, of 162.9 miles in 163 minutes, and at one time reached a speed of seventy-seven and two thirds miles per hour. Taking out the stops, which were for water, the 162.9 miles were covered in 175 minutes, the fastest speed on a long distance trip ever attained west of Chicago.

Snow in the Northwest

St. Paul, Nov. 10.—A quiet steady snow has been falling since yesterday morning. The depth ranges from two to three inches in this city, two or three times that in Iowa and southern Minnesota. The storm began in Dakota two or three days ago and now extends nearly all over the northwest. Farmers are rejoicing as it promises a good crop next year. It will add to the activity in the lumbering districts thereby improving business as a whole.

COXIE READY.

The Commonwealer Announces a Platform for 1900.

ANTICIPATES WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

Declares for the Demonetization of Both Gold and Silver and Government Ownership of Everything But Coxie's Tramps.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 10.—J. S. Coxie, of commonweal fame, is on the ground floor with his new doctrine for 1900. His platform declares for demonetization of both gold and silver, state ownership of all railroads, highways, water ways, telegraph and telephone lines; municipal ownership of all street car lines, water-works, market houses, electric lights and gas plants, employment of surplus labor in public work, woman's suffrage and state control of the liquor traffic. He has called a conference of all friends of his platform to meet in St. Louis January 19 next.

Taught Counterfeiting by Tramps.

Chillicothe, Ohio, Nov. 10.—Michael Foley, a well known Irish resident of this city, was arrested shortly before noon yesterday on a charge of counterfeiting, and not only was there a quantity of the spurious coins found on his person, but after being locked up he broke down and confessed. He claimed that two tramps had taught him how to make the coin about a month ago. He used rabbit metal and black tin, running it into sand molds and coin destroying each mold after making the coin. He made dimes, nickels, quarters and halves. The nickels are of the date of 1892 and 1895; the dimes of 1891 and 1891; the halves of 1873 and 1891. Mrs. Foley has passed some of the money at Kunkelman's saloon, whether knowingly or not is not known. Foley states that no one helped him in the work. Marshal Stanley has telegraphed to the United States marshal at Cincinnati.

Pennsylvania Republican Plurality.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—Official returns from a majority of the counties in Pennsylvania and complete returns from those in which the official count has not yet been completed, give McKinley a plurality of 401,696, the vote being: Republican, 726,834; Democratic, 325,217. The vote cast for the Palmer and Buckner ticket took up only 10,878. There were 10,000 votes cast for the Prohibition ticket and about 10,000 for the other candidates and "scattering," making a total of 1,101,918 votes in the state for all parties. In this city McKinley's plurality was 113,774 in a total of 219,781. This exceeds the vote of 1892 by 40,678. Four years ago the total vote of the state was 1,003,010, or 198,918 less than that cast on Tuesday last.

It was learned yesterday that the cost of the election in Philadelphia alone for printing, rent of polling places, advertising, pay of election officers and assessors, etc., amounted to $138,500.

Minister Killed by a Bear.

Troy, Mont., Nov. 10.—Rev. J. D. Mentor, of this place, went out hunting in the mountains with a party of friends last Saturday. He became separated from the others, and when he did not return to camp that night a searching party started out. The search was kept up until Sunday afternoon, when Mentor's hat was found. In the snow was seen blood and evidence of a terrible struggle with some wild animal, evidently a bear. Following the trail, made plain by the bear dragging its victim, the dead and mangled body of the young minister was found 100 yards away.

Rev. Mentor was a graduate of Chicago university, near which city his parents live. He was 28 years old.

Trouble With the St. Louis Ballots.

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—The points raised by Judge Dillon that all the St. Louis returns now being canvassed are incomplete because they do not show the number of rejected ballots and causes therefore. These ballots are in sealed envelopes and can only be gotten at by breaking the seals. The law says this must not be done except by order of the court in case of contest. Various entanglements are expected to result.

Burned to Death by Incendiaries.

Hannlin, Va., Nov. 10.—Incendiaries fired James Abbot's house last night and his daughter, Cora, aged 20, was burned to death. She was recently acquitted of the charge of dynamiting Squire Vance's house, killing one, and injuring another. The attic of the high school building at Waco is to be utilized for a gymnasium.

DEATHBED MARRIAGE.

Dying Girl Insists Upon Being United to Her Tutor and Lover.

Pittsburg, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Bertha Murdock Smith is a bride who may never wear her wedding gown. She was married while sick in bed, and her life is now momentarily threatened with the malady that causes the unusual wedding ceremony, and which attacked her on the eve of her wedding day.

The marriage ceremony was performed Sunday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Murdock, 6824 Simon avenue, by which their daughter became the wife of Prof. Ralph J. Smith. The groom resides at 20 Cedar avenue, Allegheny, and is well known in musical circles. His wife is about 20 years old, and well known in church circles of the East End, being a member of the Lincoln Methodist church. The young couple had been lovers for two years. Miss Murdock had a desire to take lessons on the piano, and Prof. Smith was engaged to teach her. Their frequent meeting resulted in an attachment that ripened into love, and their betrothal followed.

Thursday evening last, at 8 o'clock, was the time fixed for the wedding. Wednesday night the bride-to-be was attacked with hemorrhage of the stomach. As she grew worse she thought she would die, and insisted on the ceremony being performed.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

In Session in Rochester, New York.—Will Tackle the Tariff Question.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 10.—The general assembly, Knights of Labor, is in session here with a hundred delegates from the United States and Canada, Grand Master Workman Sovereign presiding. After the address of welcome and responses the meeting went into executive session. It is understood that one of the most important subjects under deliberation will be the tariff and that the present congress will be asked to take the duty off window glass.

Broker Charged with Forgery.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 10.—Major A. L. Hartridge, a prominent broker, lies at his home in this city desperately ill, with an officer seated on each side of his bed waiting to serve warrants charging him with forgery as soon as his physical condition will permit. Mr. Hartridge became ill Saturday night. It was given out he was suffering from apoplexy. Now it is believed he tried to commit suicide. His doctors will not talk, and mystery surrounds his illness. Major Hartridge was arrested on Saturday for forgery on a warrant issued by President Henry Blum, of the Germania bank, and again on a similar warrant issued by Cashier Bloodworth, of the National Bank of Savannah. This summer Major Hartridge arranged with Simon Borg & Co., New York, to borrow $10,000 on 150 shares of Southwestern railroad stock. He drew on them with the scrip attached for ninety and sixty shares, the scrip being in the name of S. Borg & Co. Later in the summer Major Hartridge paid this loan by draft, and the scrip was returned to him accompanied by power of attorney to transfer the stock back to Hartridge, who again floated the ninety shares to Mr. S. Melnhard, of Savannah, for $7000. He sent the scrip to the Southwestern office to transfer, and was informed that the scrip was originally for nineteen shares, and had been raised to ninety. He went to Hartridge, who took the scrip to the Germania bank and secured $7000 on it, giving a draft on S. Borg & Co. This draft was turned down yesterday. The transfer agent had indorsed on the face of the scrip, "Good for nineteen shares only." This had been erased. Scrip for sixty shares had been raised from sixteen, and sold to the National Bank of Savannah. The Germania bank will lose $5000, and the National bank $2900.

New York National Democrats.

New York, Nov. 10.—The state committee of the national Democratic party (gold Democrats) met yesterday and decided to continue the organization of the present, and an address was issued to the Democrats of the state, declaring that the recent election had demonstrated that support of the doctrines of the Chicago platform must bring disaster to the party; that the organization which espoused those doctrines during the campaign could not in future dominate the affairs of the party, and calling upon Democrats to unite in support of the time honored principles of the Democracy.

Savings Bank Closed.

Sioux City, Iowa, Nov. 10.—The Savings bank closed its doors this morning. The steady withdrawal of deposits, inability to realize on securities, except at great sacrifice, was the cause of the failure. The statement October 10, showed a net, $470,000; deposits, $150,000. W. P. Manley was appointed receiver.

The statement of the condition of the bank given out this afternoon puts assets, loans and discount at $119,000, cash $617; liabilities, due depositors, $129,400; capital stock $250,000.

FARMER'S CONGRESS

Sixteenth Annual Meeting in Session at Indianapolis—Address of

WELCOME BY GOV. MATTHEWS.

An Iowa Delegate Says the Iowa Farmers are Out of Debt and Their Farms are Not Mortgaged.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—The sixteenth annual session of the farmers' national congress began this morning. Seventy delegates were present at the opening. These will be increased later. The congress was called to order by President B. S. Clayton, of Indianapolis, Iowa, secretary, J. M. Stahl, of Cook county, Illinois, made response to the address of welcome. He said, this congress convened to consider the work for the farmer yet did not forget the men in mines, in shops, or in banks. They realized the interdependence of all industries that when the industries of cities languish the agricultural industries fail. J. S. Coffin, of Iowa, said that the state was more largely agricultural than almost any other state. He did not come with a doleful voice. The Iowa farmers are out of debt as a rule, only a very small percentage of Iowa farmers are mortgaged. Governor Matthews welcomed the congress in behalf of the state. President Clayton then delivered the annual address.

President Pardons Railway Strikers.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The president has pardoned W. H. Chimo, Isaac Ross and Philip Stanwood of California, sentenced December 6, 1894, to pay a fine of $1 and to be confined in Los Angeles county jail eighteen months, for conspiracy, the offense being committed in the railway riots at that time general throughout the country. The president wrote the following indorsement on the application:

"These convicts have suffered more than nine months' imprisonment under their sentences. I am bound to assume that they were guilty of an offense most dangerous in its character, and in the commission of which they aided and encouraged an unlawful defiance of authority which threatened the most distressing consequences. I am convinced, however, that these men are not criminals, but laboring men swept into a violation of law by at first listening to the commands of disorder. Others besides themselves are suffering humiliation and deprivation on account of their wrong doing, and I am led to believe that the purposes of punishment, so far as the effect on the prisoners is concerned, have been fully accomplished. I am also convinced that the imprisonment already suffered by these prisoners will be ample warning to the thousands equally guilty, though unpunished, and to those who may be hereafter tempted, that the laws enacted to secure peace and order must be obeyed."

Senatorship in the Regia.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—Both branches of the legislature met in joint session to ballot for United States senator. As the Democratic caucus failed to nominate last night the vote today was a mere formality to comply with the law. Democrats scattered their ballots. The Populists voted for General Phillips. No choice. Democratic caucus resumed their sitting at 3 o'clock.

Only a Rumor

There was a rumor on the streets this afternoon to the effect that Mrs. McKinley, wife of the president-elect, was dead. There was no truth in the story. It was only a street story, started by some unknown party. The Republican Associated Press report received not a word in confirmation of the report.

Baptist Congress.

Nashville, Nov. 10.—The national Baptist congress began a three day's annual session this afternoon. Delegates from all portions of the United States are in attendance. Many questions of much interest will be discussed. The session began with addresses of welcome and responses.

Chicago Wheat Went to 81%.

Boiler Explosion.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 10.—The boiler of Reddick Baker's steam mill in Percy county, exploded today. The dead are Roderick Baker, Jack Francis. Nearly a dozen others were more or less seriously injured.

NATIONAL GRAIN DEALERS.

They Meet in Chicago and Form an Association.

There was an important meeting of grain dealers held yesterday at the Saratoga hotel at Chicago. Illinois, Omaha, Minneapolis, Kansas City and St. Louis were well represented. T. P. Baxter of Taylorville, was the temporary chairman. These officers of the National Grain Dealers' association were elected: President, E. S. Greenleaf, Jacksonville, Ill.; first vice president, P. S. Hewcock, Falls City, Neb.; second vice president, E. A. Grubbs, Greenville, O.; treasurer, J. W. Adams, Minneapolis, Minn.; secretary, W. H. Chambers, Hopburn, Ia.; board of directors, M. McFarlin, Des Moines, Ia.; A. E. Hartley, Goodland, Ind.; Frederick L. Harris, Omaha, Neb.; A. E. Cluser, Lima, O.; and T. P. Baxter, Taylorville, Ill.

E. R. Millrich, of Decatur, read a paper on shortages in shipments at terminals. He pointed out that out of 188,147 cars of grain sent to Chicago market in 1895 there was a not shortage of 2854 cars due to sharp practices in weighing. He held that the shortage ought to be made good by the railways, and scored the public warehousemen incidentally. Mr. Millrich stated that he had seen Senator Cullom recently, and that the senator told him a revision of the interstate commerce law would be on the program at the next session of congress, and that a revised bill had been already drafted.

Other papers were presented by C. S. Maguire, of Cincinnati, J. E. Utz of Omaha, and W. E. Barnum of Chicago. At the evening session J. H. Siffert of Decatur, spoke on "Securing Shippers' Rights from Common Carriers." He felt confident that united effort such as a national association of grain dealers would afford could not fail to have great weight in bringing railways to time and preventing discrimination.

Endeavor Day.

Next Sunday will be Endeavor day in this city and in the evening the churches will give up their services to the society. All of the churches having Endeavor societies connected with them will be closed in the evening excepting the First Methodist and the First Presbyterian churches. At these places special services will take place. At the Methodist church W. R. Newell, a student of the Moody Institute at Chicago will speak, and at the Presbyterian church Frances B. Patterson, a woman prominent in this state in missionary work, will make an address. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be exercises at the Methodist church.

Paid Off in Gold.

Monday was pay day at the free silver review office. All of the employees were paid off in gold. None refused the "yellow boys" but several said late in the evening they had little use for gold for in the payment of bills and the purchase of supplies they got more silver than gold in the exchange. The possession of the gold, given out cheerfully at the bank, was a healthy object lesson for the review publishers. Had Bryan been elected not a dollar of gold could have been secured for the ordinary transactions of business, possibly for years. Now it is different.

Address THE EVENING REPUBLICAN, 128 South Water street, Decatur, Illinois.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1896.

The closing of the Bryan month has resulted in the opening of the mills.

The letter from Major James A. Connolly published in yesterday's Republican shows that our present and next congressmen fully appreciate the splendid work done in Macon county which saved the district.

When Bryan was nominated he at once notified the convention and the people that if he was elected he would not be a candidate for a second term. The first term seems to be what troubles Bryan most and it might be well for him to let the second term alone until he has secured a first term.

Some of our free traders are already advising against a revision of the tariff because it would disturb business. These people try to forget and want everybody to forget that no revision of a tariff bill along the line of protection over disturbed business. The only time tariff tinkering disturbs business is when an attempt is being made to let in foreign goods that business is disturbed until it can see how wide the gates are to be opened.

Kansas voted for Bryan. Kansas will want to borrow money for legitimate purposes. Where will Kansas go to borrow? Will it be to Arkansas where Chairman Jones lives? Will it go to any state that voted for Bryan? No, it will go to those states that voted against the fallacy of free silver, those unpatriotic states that are said to be under the control of the money power. What is true of Kansas in this regard is true of Nebraska and every other state that voted for Bryan and yet had they had the power to fix the policy of the government on money they could not have borrowed money anywhere.

According to Jones of Arkansas when an employer told his men before election that if Bryan was elected that he would have to suspend business or limit it it was coercion; also, if an employer whose business had been suspended gave out the word that if Bryan was defeated he would resume business and his former employees might return to work it exercising undue influence over free American citizens, and yet every employer who gave out these things told the truth and told it for the benefit of labor, for his own benefit and for the benefit of the country.

Bryan has been defeated and thousands upon thousands of men have been called to employment while other thousands have retained their jobs as a result. Moral. It is safe for the wage earners of the country to listen to what the Joneses and the Bryans have to say pending an election and then do the other thing. The Joneses and the Bryans never employ labor and don't know what is involved in its employment.

Senator Carter of Montana, says that the Republican party ought to do something for silver in view of Bryan's large vote. In the first place 1,000,000 more voted for sound money than voted for Bryan say they don't want free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 and they don't propose to have it. This was done after Bryan declared the war was a war of extermination on the part of the 16 to 1-ites. So the Republican party could do nothing for silver without surrendering all they have won. The Republican party has given silver eighteen years of coinage on government accounts coining fifty tin or more silver dollars than were coined in eighty-one years under free coinage. It then purchased for two years and a half the entire output of the silver mines in the United States and in face of all this silver declined in price from $1.10 an ounce to 50 cents an ounce and in face of this fact the senators from the free silver states when the patriotic senators tried to pass a revenue bill to relieve the treasury became revolutionists and put a rider on the bill providing for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 and defeated the bill. Considering this together with Bryan's black flag declaration could the Republican party do anything for silver? There is but one thing it can do for silver and that is in the direction of an international agreement. It has promised to do that and that is all it will do and it can be expected to keep its promises, in a decent and orderly way.

The Escape.
The people of the United States by their ballots on Tuesday, Nov. 8, set aside impending disaster and saved the entire country from unparalleled financial trouble. Had the Populists won, instead of the mills starting and creating a demand for labor and gold coming from its hiding places, we would have been confronted with more mills closing, enterprises abandoned indefinitely and less demand for labor and in addition to that every silver dollar, silver certificate, greenback and treasury note would have depreciated 50 per cent in the pockets of the people.

Diagnosis of Grippe.
True grippe is a germ disease. These germs are in the circulation and permeate every tissue and organ of the body. This brings speedy collapse and often death to the aged and debilitated. The only germicide known that searches out and destroys every germ in the system is Brazilian Balm. A week or ten days' treatment effects a complete cure.

and gold would now be at a corresponding premium with no promise for anything better for many years. Bryan admitted that the success of free silver would bring a panic but suggested that ultimately a healthier condition would be the result. Senator Teller in an interview during the campaign said that the election of Bryan would not at once bring better times but in the course of twenty years we would be upon a safe financial basis and everybody who was willing to work would be more prosperous.

The people may congratulate themselves upon escaping a policy that promised so little of relief and so much of calamity. No one will honestly claim that under the threat of free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 or the actual coinage of silver at that ratio we would have bimetallicism or that gold and silver would circulate concurrently among the people. It seems useless to argue the question before intelligent people. The fact that gold was hoarded in large and small quantities, pending the result of the election, and bringing it to the banks for deposit as soon as the election decided that we would continue the present gold standard, under which we have done business since 1834, and that every dollar should continue to be as good as every other dollar, of itself shows that gold would at once disappear upon the election of Bryan. Had this occurred no man doing business upon business principles would have known just what to do. To save himself from being robbed and bankrupted by a cheap dollar. He could not have determined just where to put his mark so as to make a legitimate business profit and all he could have done would be to mark his goods high enough to cover accident. This would have been legitimate, but it would have opened to the hurt of the consumer and so it would have continued so long as the country remained under a fluctuating currency which would have been until the country returned to a sound money basis.

No party went before the people with a greater fallacy than did the free silver people. It was bad in every way and promised no benefits except to those who owned silver mines. Its defeat on the contrary brings promise and hope to everyone. Business men have confidence in the stability of our money and know what they may expect from the administration elect, therefore mills are opening money is seeking investment and promise of returning prosperity is noticeable at every hand. Those wage earners who were deceived into voting for the free silver fallacy against their own interests, will, many of them find employment through the instrumentality of their wisest fellows who cast logical votes, and in four years from now no party unless it is the Populist party will dare to attempt to go before the people with a declaration for coining 50 cents worth of silver and calling it a dollar.

"Rob Roy."
This simple announcement should be sufficient to crowd the auditorium of the opera house where this opera is to have its first Decatur presentation, Wednesday evening, Nov. 11. It is safe to predict the theatre will be found so when the curtain rings up. No more important an organization than the Whitney Opera company, which is to interpret this opera, has ever visited this city. The cast which has been submitted contains many names well known to the musical world. The title role in "Rob Roy" will be sung by Mr. Arthur Donaldson, who is the possessor of a magnificent baritone voice, and is gifted with a fine physique, and a thorough knowledge of the art of acting. Miss Florence Wolcott, the prima donna, will be seen in the fascinating character of Janet; Miss Wolcott is a stranger to the people and possesses a sweet, pure, high and an exceptionally well-cultivated voice. In her new role, the lady has a splendid opportunity to display her talent.

Diagnosis of Grippe.
True grippe is a germ disease. These germs are in the circulation and permeate every tissue and organ of the body. This brings speedy collapse and often death to the aged and debilitated. The only germicide known that searches out and destroys every germ in the system is Brazilian Balm. A week or ten days' treatment effects a complete cure.

UNREASONABLE SPANISH PRIDE.

Blind Prejudice the Governing Force Among the Nation's Rulers.

Europe presents no spectacle more extraordinary than the contrast between the nerve of the Spanish people and their incapacity in action. For 18 months they have endeavored to conquer a revolted colony 4,000 miles away, and have in the effort used and consumed resources such as it was hardly believed outside of Spain that they could have called up even to resist invasion.

They have actually forwarded to Cuba 210,000 regular troops, sufficiently equipped, a force nearly three times as great as that with which this country met and quelled the Indian mutiny of 1857, and more than three times as great as the white garrison which holds the Indian empire. The army, sufficient, one would think, for a defensive war against France, accomplished nothing, but the Spanish statesmen lose neither heart nor hope. They are wholly uncluttered by victory, they know that their soldiers die like flies, and they are told every week that the rich island is becoming a desert, that three-fourths of it is going out of cultivation, that the settlers are quitting in thousands, while those left behind are joining the insurgents, that the whole expenses of the island must be borne for years by Spain, and that every month increases the chance that the American republic, with its limitless resources for war, will intervene; and still, with a tenacity which Englishmen cannot but admire, they refuse to relax their hold. Be the results what they may, they will make no terms till the rebels have submitted unconditionally.

The fissure between parties in Spain is deeper than a political fissure ever was in this country, but upon this subject the parties are not together, scarcely differing even as to means. Pitt was never firmer than Senor Canovas, and never better supported by a packed parliament, which nevertheless represents the dominant feeling of the country. If the conscripts die, the Spanish premier sends more conscripts. If the peasants or the city mobs object to their dispatch, both are silenced by an unhesitating appeal to the military law, which makes resistance to the conscription one of the most deadly of offenses. If the Philippines rise in insurrection, the premier offers to send an army there also, even an army of cavalry, if that will be the army first required. If the people of the United States mutter or threaten interference, the premier ransacks the world for cruisers ready built, or builders who will build quickly, giving enormous prices. In two cases $750,000 per ship, for the needed vessels. If the treasury is harassed, he sells everything that is available—monopolies to the Rothschilds, privileges to the railways, preferences to the dealers in bonds. He even ventures to leave the troops in the island unpaid, and for four months no soldier there has seen the color of coin, and has been fortunate if bread and garlic have been served with any regularity. The one thing which Senor Canovas will not do is to listen to proposals for compromise, the time for which, indeed, has now at length passed away.—London Spectator.

FEW DOGS BECOME RABID.

Many Dogs Supposed to Be Mad Are Only Ill.

There is a popular delusion regarding the prevalence of madness among dogs, especially in the summer season. John P. Haines, president of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is authority for the statement that of the thousands of alleged mad dogs reported by the newspapers and police few, if any, are really mad. The general opinion seems to be that when a dog acts at all strange—runs around, barks, or does anything to call attention to him—he is mad and must be shot at once. Otherwise he might bite some one, with dire results. In a hot spell, when man and beast alike are suffering from the effects of the sun's rays, the mad dog story is revived. While men and women are being picked up in the streets and taken to hospitals, while horses are falling in their tracks and are being shot to put them out of misery, the poor dog, man's favorite companion, is again made the subject of unwarrantable slander.

Mr. Haines told a Tribune reporter that it was a great mistake that the public should have been kept so long in ignorance of the true features of mad dogs. Much of the terror and fear of hydrophobia which now exists might otherwise have been avoided. If people were better informed, they would not be so easily misled. A person bitten by a dog thus afflicted might have been lifted from the minds of many an anxious parent and guardian.

The common notion of a mad dog was one that frothed at the mouth, ran wildly through the streets, snapped at every one that came in his way, and refusing to drink or go near water. The true symptoms, it was said, are a desire on the part of the animal to go into the water and put his head in it. There is no frothing at the mouth. Instead there is a dark, thick, sticky substance which exudes from it. Instead of running wildly about the mad dog will go off by himself and sulk. His tendency is rather to leave his home and roam aimlessly about the country. He seldom exhibits a desire to bite or molest anyone.

Mr. Haines says that hydrophobia is not a disease of dogs at all. If a dog were mad the scientific term applied was "rabies caninis." A person bitten by a dog thus afflicted might have hydrophobia or might not. Hydrophobia was not a certain result.—N. Y. Tribune.

BRAIN FAGGING.

The Doctors Say There's Death in Too Much Mental Work.

Some interesting observations on the symptoms of mental fatigue were discussed at the recent meeting of the Anthropological society. The result of these investigations goes to prove that weariness of mind, the result of work, like other forms of exhaustion, is recognizable under two different though related aspects of irritability and of incapacity. Further careful inquiry into the same subject would probably show that, here as elsewhere, the former of these conditions is introductory to the latter, and is that natural sequel of that stage of apparently successful overaction which is seen when an organ still fully capable is unduly stimulated.

The observations referred to were culled from a series of reports by school-teachers, and included details of their own sensations as well as of the children under their care. The signs of mental irritability were apparent in sleeplessness and nervous laughter; of fatigue, in sleepiness and incapacity for task work.

Yawning, yawning, and a languid manner told that the will was flagging; headache suggested overstrain in study, combined with defective ventilation, and perhaps a too sparing diet; while some curious facts bearing on the causation of color blindness and somnambulism were also noted.

Thus, in one case, the blue-color perception was for a time obliterated, and the sufferer from this defect found herself painting ivory leaves a bright orange; while in another a student, having retired to rest on the eve of an examination, awoke at his desk to find that he had been busily engaged in drawing humorous cartoons relating to a former conversation. Here we have an instance of cerebral irritation due to overwork, which suggests a somewhat close connection between dreaming and somnambulism, and affords a clue to the physiology of the latter condition.

Overwork, both mental and bodily, is at once the most general and the least regarded form of illness to which we are liable in the present age. Do what we may, it is next to impossible to escape from it; but there is, at all events, a certain satisfaction in being able to recognize its features. We must not forget, however, that it is also to a considerable extent a preventable evil, and it is certainly a matter for satisfaction that this fact is not ignored by the reforming party in the legislature.

Its treatment in individual cases requires chiefly that due attention be paid to the two great essentials of timely rest and wholesome diet. Work, however irksome, may, it is generally allowed, be undertaken on a very liberal scale if it is not too continuous, but is broken by timely and adequate intervals of rest.

The value of a plain and liberal dietary is hardly less, and we may take it as a maxim for the times that, so long as appetite and sleep are unimpaired, there is no dangerous degree of overwork; and, consequently, that a failure in either of these respects should be regarded as a warning signal, to which attention should be paid by relieving the strain of exertion.—N. Y. Recorder.

CRISIS IN VICTORIA'S FINANCES.

England's Queen Once Had a Narrow Escape from Bankruptcy.

It is a fact that not very many years ago her majesty escaped complete financial ruin by a mere chance. The failure of a certain great bank is within everybody's recollection. It came like a thunderbolt upon the whole commercial world.

The deficit was not to be counted in hundreds of thousands, but in millions of money. As for the shareholders in the unlimited company, they were liable individually to the whole extent of the bank's debt. That is to say, the owner of a ten-pound note share was a part debtor of the six or seven millions that the bank was short.

This, of course, meant hopeless ruin even to the very richest of them. The first call swept away the savings of a lifetime of the widow and orphan. In a short time the weight of debt had attacked and swallowed up the middle-class holders of the shares. Then, grinding as slowly and surely as "the mills of the gods," it reached the capitalists and millionaires and left them sucked dry and penniless. It mattered nothing whether they had one share or a hundred, the result was the same—hopeless ruin.

Now it happened that some time before this failure a loyal Scotchman had died, bequeathing sundry shares in this bank to the queen. Her advisers sat long in council considering this bequest, and her fate trembled in the balance.

At last they decided that it was beneath her dignity to hold shares in a commercial undertaking. But the comic papers got hold of the incident after the failure of the bank and made capital of it from the point of view of what "might have happened." They pictured Osborne, Balmoral and Buckingham palace for sale and the crown jewels in pawn. They pictured "Mrs. England" reduced to taking in lodgers. They represented her ruling the kingdom from a room in the workhouse and Mr. Gladstone bringing her a welcome present of tea and tobacco.—Pearson's Weekly.

"I do not remember," remarked the cannibal king as he drew away from the table after moistening the tips of his fingers in the finger bowl, "I do not remember that I ever ate a more delicious meal."

STUBBLEFIELD & QUINLAN.

New Law Firm Established in the City of Chicago.

Last Saturday's issue of the Illustrated Morning Star, published at Chicago, contains a column reference to the organization of a new law firm in that city—that of Arnett Stubblefield and William H.
Quinlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Quinlan, of this city. Mr. Stubblefield, whose portrait adorns the first page of the Star, is a native of Kentucky and is one of the most successful attorneys in Chicago where he has been practicing eight years.
He has been connected with a number of important cases. The Star says: "Mr.
Stubblefield represented Dr. John Alexander Dowle in the crusade of property owners and the mayor of Chicago to ruin and drive Dr. Dowle from the city, in which Dr. Dowle was arrested more than one hundred times and was prosecuted against by a desperately contested injunction suit. This was one of the most bitterly fought campaigns ever conducted in the courts of Cook county, and contrary to the prophecy of bar and in the face of newspaper opposition, Mr. Stubblefield did not lose a single case. It was in this fight that he successfully invoked the old common law writ of prohibition, this being the second time that this instrument of the law had ever been successfully employed in this state. Mr. Stubblefield's experience in contesting ordinances and special assessment cases has made him an authority in municipal law.
Upon his withdrawal from his old firm of Thornton & Chancellor, he formed a partnership with Mr. William H. Quinlan, who is a Harvard man, and who had also for some time been a member of the firm of Thornton & Chancellor, and had proved himself to be one of the most thorough and energetic members of the Chicago bar. Mr. Quinlan has shown himself conspicuously able in real estate law and chancery practice where his studious, scholarly habits of mind shine to the greatest advantage. Mr. Quinlan was one of the most active workers in the reorganization of the Illinois naval reserve, in which organization he holds the office of ensign.
Though both Mr. Stubblefield and Mr.
Quinlan are young men and their new firm just recently has been organized, it has already taken rank as one of the leading law firms in the city.

Manual Training Building at the Home to be Inspected Next Thursday.

Next Thursday will be a holiday at the Soldiers' Orphan's Home, at Bloomington, on account of the formal inspection and dedication of the new manual training school building. A number of notabil-ities will be present, among them Hon.
W. O. Cochran, department commander of the G. A. R.; Past Commander Powell, all the members of the Grand Army visiting committee, board of trustees of the Home and many visitors, from Normal and Bloomington. The dedication proper will be held at the new building in the afternoon. There will also be exercises in the chapel, with talks by the distinguished visitors. All will be given an opportunity to inspect the new building. The structure as it now stands cost $3500. Several hundred dollars will be expended in fitting it up for its intended use. It will stand as a monument to Superintendent Busst, who persisted in the face of obstacles to carry out his idea that the older inmates of the Home should have some useful occupation and training during the last year or two of their stay.

The Perry Lecture.

There really seems to be something new this city. The player did not aim over forth to give to others. When more artists adopt his method, explaining somewhat the compositions they play, just so much sooner will music in America become what it is in Germany.—Ohio State

The work of prayer services held last evening by the members of the Y. M. C. A. at the First Baptist church were largely attended. The Endeavor societies united in the exercises and many of the members of that organization were present.
An address was given by J. E. Willis on the subject "Are We Different." This evening the services will be at the Congregational church when an address will be given by J. T. Finley. Tomorrow evening the members of the Y. M. C. A. will attend the regular prayer meetings at the different churches. Services will be held every evening until Saturday.

The members of the holiday club are reorganizing for the coming social season.
Last year the club was composed of Bar Memorial for C. A. Ewing Placed on Record.

REMARKS BY HON. W. C. JOHNS.

Grand Tribute of a Close Friend of the Deceased—A Man Marked for Victory—Judge Vail
to the Bar.

At the opening of the Mason county circuit court Monday afternoon with Judge E. P. Vail presiding, the expression of the bar on the death of Hon.
Charles A. Ewing was formally presented by Hon. W. C. Johns, chairman of the committee which comprised I. A. Buckingham, W. E. Nelson and J. M. Cloney.
Mr. Johns in presenting the memorial said:

May it please the Court: The sad duty has been imposed upon me of announcing to this separate part of an independent portion of the government of the state of Illinois, the death of Charles Adlai Ewing.
The grateful task is mine also, of presenting the memorial of the bar and officers of the courts, which the simple customs of our calling and profession have made usual upon the death of one of our number. We have been called together many times and must in the order of nature meet at intervals hereafter to record our estimation of the man whom an inalienable law of nature has called to his reward.

The death of Mr. Ewing was not only sudden but entirely unexpected. When each of us on Friday morning was told of the fact, there was the sensation of a barbaric shock, and of profound grief. We met suddenly, appointed a committee and adjourned. We met again—the committee presented—and there was adopted the following memorial. (The memorial was printed in the Republican Saturday.)

On behalf of the bar and officers of the courts I now move the court that this memorial be spread at large upon the records and two certified copies be furnished to the committee whose names are signed.

May it please your Honor: This memorial is nothing more than a feeble attempt to express that which language is unable to depict. We had among us a great man, and without reason he has been taken away. How great he was a few of us never really understood or appreciated, until called upon to reflect upon his conditions, and untimely death.
The magnificent demonstration at his obsequies, the universal expressions of admiration, love and respect, taken together and made one, can only be his fitting eulogy, the memorial of the people upon his life, character and attainments.

No one person, no mere formula of words, can cover the subject, or portray the depth and strength of the existing feeling. Mr. Ewing was of this community in every respect, and was a leader. He was of this state and nation, and was a commander. Of such a man it is impossible to express exactly the right thing. It is the entire sentiment of the people, which constitutes and makes up the most eloquent tribute to his memory.

To those of us who have had the high privilege of knowing him in every relation of life since he came here in 1861, who have been with him from early boy-hood to his untimely death, he was always a striking figure, the model of a great and good man. Filled he had, personal peculiarities in small things were his; but viewed from afar he was the ideal gentleman, lawyer and man of affairs. He was so regarded by the community at large.
But he had this glorious peculiarity: He could be as closely examined as a statue or picture might be, with magnifying glass and sounding hammer at hand, and yet there could not be discovered a flaw in the splendid structure, which inspired its strength.

The man who has known him longest, and most intimately from early boyhood, socially and in business, has this day reflected that there never was known of him an ignoble or ungentlemanly thing. He never gave utterance to an impure or indecent thought. Always personally pure in mind and action, his charity, growing broader and deeper with advancing age, was never so narrowly hedged as to allow him to say an unjust thing of any person, nor an unkind one. Always just in his judgments, their expression fell from his lips framed in classical language but tinged with the glow of a genial and gentle inward disposition.

Yesterday amid sorrow and tears and flowers and song and eulogy we buried his mortal remains in Greenwood. The mighty tribute to him then was to the citizen and statesman, the Christian gentleman, the public spirited man, the husband, father, brother and son. How completely rounded out, in every particular, which should constitute a man!
When one has summarized his social and family relations he has announced the full and complete catalogue of all manly virtues and requirements, either natural or civil. One man can only be good in all these relations, and have them all, unless he should also be great in each of them; and great Mr. Ewing was, conspicuously and most unquestionably.

But with these we have, in this forum, nothing to do. We are to consider the lawyer. Every element of his nature in other respects, every virtue, every public act, every courtesy of social life, every benignant judgment and deed, in short all his other aspects, were, and are necessary to his greatness as a lawyer. He could not have been the leader, the knight without fear or reproach at the bar, and in the courts, if he had been otherwise (than as we have known him, if he had lacked in any the slightest respect, these conspicuous and commanding essentials of a man.

From the very start of his business career as in his preparatory stages Mr. Ewing was marked for victory. How great and large that success was to be and in what direction depended entirely upon himself, an admiring and loving community stood ready to assist.

It has been written by Lord Bacon "He that hath a wife and children hath given hostages to fortune, for they are impediments to great enterprises either of virtue or mischief." It is known Mr.
Ewing had these lovely impediments, and other sacred and natural family ties. It is known to but few, how loyally with what knightly courage he observed and maintained the terms of his social captivity, and the hostages which he had given the world and society.

He was repeatedly offered congressional nominations, and once at least, and possibly twice, where his election was not assured, but as events proved, quite certain, he refused from sheer loyalty to these hostages.

I know he was ambitious; that he was solicitous of honorable public distinction, and that he years ago entered public life there is no doubt to the honor he might have won. He conscientiously believed the Democratic party best represented the welfare and liberty of the people. Whether this judgment was correct, is not now germane. We honor him for the courage of his convictions. But he was above the mere formula of party platforms. He was distinctly a patriot and lover of his country, and when the time came that his party announced doctrines and policies that were, in his judgment, unpatriotic, dangerous, and almost treasonable, his great soul was aroused. We do not now consider the correctness of his conclusions. The question has been decided, the verdict of the jury has been announced, the judgment has been rendered, the motion for a new trial will be overruled. But he became a political catapult; he hurled the combined forces of patriots of his own belief and party against these dangerous teachings, they went down before him as when before the strong reaper in the harvest field.

When he strode forward it was might the members of his party at once recognized a David, and knew the Goliath was conquered. It is within a few months that the state and nation have recognized the might and power of this man. Like Lincoln, his intimates know him to be great, but the occasion revealed him to the people. It is and indeed to know that his usefulness has been cut off by his untimely death; but, like Lincoln again, he was fortunate in his time. He was summoned away when the victory for which he fought was known to be certain.

The great lawyer, eloquent advocates, contentious and generous opponent, the friend and associate, the ornament of our profession has gone to the great and final court of last resort; judgment has been entered approving and confirming all he did at the bar. Richard Hooker wrote:
"Of law there can be no less knowledge than that her seat is the bosom of God, her voice the harmony of the world; all things in heaven and earth do her honage, the very least as feeling her care, and the great as not exempted from her power." Of this high and correct ideal Charles Adlai Ewing was the example. The humblest might pour their wrongs and grievances in his ear and command his earnest aid and sympathy.
The mighty quailed before his learning, experience and burning eloquence.

Lives like his teach us all a lesson and give to all his juniors the need of reasonable hope, the incentive to honorable ambitions. If each of us could live as he has the community, the state, the nation, the world would be wiser and better, in our lives we would be honorable, loved and respected and in our deaths, mourned and glorious.

Remarks by Judge Vail.
In ordering the memorial be placed on the court records Judge Vail took occasion to pay a high compliment to the noble character of Mr. Ewing, alluding to his late presence and bearing in court, which he suggested were worthy of emulation.

BROKE BOTH WRISTS.

Attorney W. C. Outten Fell Down Stairs
This Morning and was Painfully Injured.

Attorney W. C. Outten met with a painful accident this morning at his home, 570 West Prairie avenue. About 6 o'clock he was coming down stairs when he lost his balance and fell. He struck on his hands and both wrists were broken in a manner which is known as a Colles fracture. The injury is not dangerous but it was very painful. The accident places Mr. Outten in an unfortunate position as he will not have the use of either hand for some time. Dr. Will Barnes was called to the house this morning and gave the necessary surgical attention assisted by Dr. Charles Wood. Mr. Outten received no other injuries in the fall.

Week of Prayer Services.

Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church the first of the week of prayer services were held. Two addresses were given. J. L. Deck spoke on the "Field and Its Needs." He mentioned the fact that there were a large number of young men in the state and spoke of how few of these belonged to the association or the churches, and said that there should be a special effort to get these young men into the work. Secretary N.
W. Woodford made an address on the subject, "The Breach in the Wall." He said that the church memberships were deficient in young men and that the Y. M.
C. A. was the medium through which the united churches worked to secure that class of members. This evening the services will be held at the First Baptist church. J. E. Willis will speak on the subject, "Are We Different?" The members of the Endeavor societies will unite in the service this evening. Ladies are welcome at any of the meetings.

lished by the Central Union and American Telephone and Telegraph companies.
There are twenty-eight long distance telephones in Decatur and each subscriber has received a copy of the big directory, giving the names and address in all the states. The tolls for a five-minute talk to Chicago is $2.35 for day and $1.35 for night, to New York a little over $9 for day and a little over $1.50 for night. The Fred Kline Hurt.

Fred, the 9-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kline, was found beneath the left door of the barn at the residence on Edward street yesterday evening at

Dr. J. G. Harvey was called and soon resuscitated the child. He suffered from concussion of the brain. Dr. E. J. Brown got there just as Dr. Harvey was leaving.
The doctors say that from present appearances no bad results will follow the accident. How the boy came to fall from the loft no one knows. The Kline family is moving into the J. T. Hubbard residence on West William street.

On the Bowery.

"On the Bowery" the New York comedy drama and original bowery play in which Steve Brodie is a prominent figure has become a perennial favorite, and the announcement that it will appear at the Grand next Saturday evening, will interest a large multitude of people. The popular success of the piece has been little short of amazing. Wonder has been expressed at the fact that a play showing raw scenes and characters of the Bowery should be entirely clean, free from the slightest immodesty. The reason is, that the picture, quite true as far as it goes, stops short of anything offensive in the real life of the Bowery. The fun is up-rampant but always pure. The characters are a most amusing lot and are portrayed in the most lifelike colors. As for the melo dramatic incidents including Brodie's jump from Brooklyn bridge and the rescue from the flames, they are the kind that raise audiences to the highest pitch of excitement. New specialties and new Bowery features are introduced this season.

IRELAND LAUGH

The Bishop's Attention Called Statements to Effect that He About to be Removed

THINKS RUMOR UNWORTHY OF DENIAL

Said to Be on Account of His Advocate of the Election of McKinley—This, However, is Denied.

St. Paul, Nov. 11.—When Archbishop Ireland's attention was called to the rumor that his recent political stances have been disapproved at Rome and that he would be removed from the see of St. Paul, he laughed away the whole matter as unworthy of notice, would not dignify it with a denial, those close to the archbishop say the part is absurd.

Report at Washington.
Washington, Nov. 11.—Inquiry at the State Department concerning the removal of Archbishop Ireland brought the statement that no information the subject had been received. An archbishop Ireland has not been asked to resign and there are no indications he would do so.

The Report at Philadelphia.
Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—From confidential authority having information of social information, it is learned that the attention of Rome has been called directly to a sermon delivered by Archbishop Ireland at Washington, on the occasion of the consecration of Bishop O'Connell in which he referred to the bishop as the main strength of the Catholic church. As the Jesuits and other religious orders have no bishops, the expression was construed to be a reflection on those orders. This has been the subject of recent adverse comment in the press of the Jesuits at Rome. It is supposed that the basis for the report from Ireland will be summarized there, removed. It is believed the Pope will listen to those seeking Ireland's removal. The archbishop's advocacy of McKinley's election has not figured in the matter.

THE PRESIDENT-ELECT

The Stream of Callers Knows No Count.

Canton, Ohio, Nov. 11.—There were used steady streams of callers at the McKinley home yesterday. During the day the president-elect with several friends went for a drive. Later Mr.
McKinley went to the Pennsylvania avenue where he visited the Chicago newsmen who were returning from a tour New York and Washington. Information was passed. Upon returning home he found a good sized crowd waiting to greet him.

Governor elect Pingree, of Michigan, accompanied by Col. John Aikman, Detroit, Mich., doctor and representative, spent two hours with President McKinley this afternoon. The Associated Press reporter Mr. Pingree said the tariff was the issue upon the Republican carried Michigan. V. asked if Michigan had a candidate cabinet position, Col. Aikman replied Michigan had a great many people within her borders.

Mr. McKinley appears in robust health.
He was at his best when he chatted his friends, last night. Every thing to the house remembrances friends in all parts of the country. Ferns are linked up in beautiful clusters over the house. Chairs, canons, h-shoes, souvenir medallions and ba-nisters, candles and all sorts of offerings arrived from the expression of the sense of the rooms in the house appearance of an old curiosity shop.
